

PRESS RELEASE For Immediate Release

Andrea Randall Joins Wyatt Design Group as Manager, Project Controls

January 9, 2017 (Pasadena, CA) - Wyatt Design Group (WDG) has a busy year ahead and with multiple international theme park and leisure destination master planning and conceptual design projects lined up, so much so that extra forces are needed to help keep Larry Wyatt and the team organized and running at full speed.

Andrea Randall returns to working together with Larry Wyatt as the Manager of Project Controls for Wyatt Design Group, bestowing her organized project and office management skills. From contracts to financing to creative resourcing, Andrea will touch most every project throughout its life-cycle. Larry and Andrea first worked together at Warner Bros. International Recreational Enterprises when Andrea was a Project Manager on Larry's projects.

Her versatile background in the attractions industry includes various positions: technical director at Buena Vista Special Events, manager at Walt Disney Imagineering, event production at Universal Studios Hollywood, business affairs at Landmark Entertainment Group, and project and design management at Scenery West. She then had stints at various companies as a project manager, production manager, operations manager, and management consultant. With a Bachelor of Arts, Cum Laude with Honors degree and Presidential Scholar from the Department of Theatre, CUNY at Brooklyn College, followed by classes at Studio and Forum of Stage Design, Andrea began her career putting her stage skills to use for the New York Opera at Lincoln Center. She then went on as technical director for dance with the 1984 Olympics Arts Festival in Los Angeles, prior to her entrance into themed entertainment.

"We are thrilled to be working again with Andrea, her experience and industry background allows her the talent to cross-over various duties and is certainly the glue that holds Wyatt Design Group together on a daily basis," states Larry Wyatt, Principal, Wyatt Design Group.
